The Anderson people took an appeal and 1 prepared our side of the case in that appeal and paid all the expenses. The appeal was pending when Curtis and the lawyers for the Anderson estate met in Vermont and settled the case. I knew nothing about that until weeks afterward and when I heard the case was settled I demanded that I be paid.

"Curtis told me that I would have to get my money from Mrs Watson, that that was a part of the settlement. When I appealed to Mrs Watson she said I had to get my money from Curtis, that that was a part of the settlement.

I took that up with some of the Judges at that time in New York city, among them Joseph H. Choate, who is a live and James C. Carter, who was then the leader of the bar and who is now dead. They said I certainly should sue with the lawyers and I certainly should sue with the case in that appeal and paid all the expenses.

"I said this morning, that George M. Curtis was a lial. I will prove that I do not eall a man a liar without knowing the facts.

"But the best proof of it is the telegram from Vermont that Congressman Plumley sent to-day to The Evenning Sen, in which he says George M. Curtis is mistagen. No jury ever presented anything to him as the District Attorney such as Curtis gives out.

"The matter is false and bogus. No-body known it better then the case on the settlement, and it was useless for us to sue Curtis.

Telephone Service Measured To Your Needs

THE Message Rate system of charging for telephone service places both the small user and the large user on an equitable basis. Each pays according to the amount of service used.

Measured telephone service supplanted the old flat rate service in New York City June 1st, 1894, when there were but 14,800 telephones - one to every 195 people. Today there are more than 500,000 telephones, one to every ten people. The Message Rate, by fitting the service to the needs of all the people, is responsible in a large measure for the splendid increase shown.

Under the old "flat rate," or unlimited basis, charges were the same to the small user as to the large user. Telephone service, therefore, was restricted mainly to those whose use justified the expenditure of the old flat rate.

With the introduction of the Message Rate, telephone service came within the reach of a rapidly increasing number of small users, the usefulness of the service expanded and the telephone became of greater value to each subscriber because of the greater number of people he could reach. Frequent reductions in rates followed, and today the minimum rate for a business telephone in New York City is $48 a year-nearly $200 a year less than under the old "flat rate" of 1894.

> Based on the right principle of charging according to usage, the Message Rate has served to develop a more extensive system, to protect the quality of the service, and to distribute charges equitably. As a result, today New York City has the "best telephone service in the world."
